"At Johnson & Johnson we know that the CMA is the professional designation for those with finance and accounting experience who want to play a key role in business decisions. Our accountants are encouraged to earn the CMA. And, we're not alone in this view. Companies like IBM, Monsanto, Air Products and Chemicals, Electronic Data Systems and 3M encourage and assist their professionals to earn the CMA.

"Preparation for the CMA provides an excellent review of the concepts, principles and practices that are important in management accounting. The CMA emphasizes such diverse but important areas as decision analysis, information systems, economics and organizational behavior, as well as accounting and finance.

"So if you are looking for a way to demonstrate your potential, motivation, knowledge and skills in management accounting, earn the CMA and become a Certified Management Accountant."
